Broadus Church Presents...

The Living Nativity "A Journey Foretold"

Friday-Sunday, Dec. 6-8 & 13-15

The Living Nativity is a gift our church gives to the community every other year so that people can better understand and appreciate God's act of love in sending His Son Jesus into the world. Guests will experience a guided tour down a wooded path to nine different interactive scenes featuring over seventy costumed actors and live animals. The tour ends with refreshments back at the church.

The Living Nativity is completely free, but tickets are necessary. They will be available beginning at 5 pm on Sunday, Dec. 1. Please visit BroadusChurch.org and look for the link. [A limited number of golf carts are available for guests with mobility issues. Please note this need when signing up for tickets, or talk to Karen Tucker at the church office.] Those without internet access may call the church office for assistance with tickets.

Church members are encouraged to invite friends and neighbors, particularly those who are unchurched or do not understand the true Christmas story. Flyers are available at church.

Advent means "coming." It is a time of preparation for a meaningful celebration of the arrival of Jesus. Each Sunday this month we will!

light a candle of the Advent Wreath, reminding us of the hope, peace, joy and love that come to us as gifts of God. Our children's choirs will be singing on December 15th!

Christmas Eve Services Tuesday, Dec. 24 at 5:00 pm

We will offer 5:00 services at both the Pole Green and Hebron campuses. Join us for a time of singing and reflection as we celebrate the birth of the Savior! Both sites will also be sharing the Lord's Supper.

There is something magical about Christmas (and I use the term "magical" in the most divine sense of the word). I can't claim it is true for everybody, but there is something about the season that seems to bring out our inner child, stirring our memories, emotions and faith.

When I think back to my childhood, I fondly remember a number of special things about Christmas past. Just about all of them are related to our years as a missionary family in South Korea, because I was six when we arrived and eighteen when we left—excluding a couple of "furlough" years. My memories are probably both flawed and well-embellished after all these years, but that doesn't much matter to me. They are special.

I remember the smell of hot chocolate in those gaudy Santa-head mugs. I remember Mom and Dad letting us open one present on Christmas Eve, while saving all the rest for Christmas morning. Sometimes they would pick it out, and sometimes we got to rummage through the pile under the tree to pick our own. I remember that my older brother and I would tend to get a lot of the same things, being just 1 1/2 years apart. That was not so true of our two sisters, who were about 12 years apart. I remember the roaring fire we would build in our heat-inefficient and seldom-used fireplace. Christmas morning was one of the few times we would light a fire because (1) firewood was hard to come by where we lived, and (2) the fireplace was in our seldom-used living room. I also remember how the snow would start on Christmas Eve so we could wake up to a foot of white wonder! (Ok, that's an embellishment caused by too many Hallmark movies. I don't think that ever happened... even once... anywhere in the world. Sleet and cold rain, yes. A foot of snow, no.)

One of my true special memories was how our Korean church family would sometimes come caroling ... at midnight! This took us by surprise the first time, but later we learned the proper etiquette of inviting them in for snacks and cocoa. Things like that stick in the heart and mind. I also remember how on Christmas Eve, our family would pull down the nativity scene display and re-enact the story with the small figurines, reading the Bible passages as we went along.

Now I'm all grown up—and even our kids are all grown up—but Christmas memories and traditions are still in the making. For me, even though I'm only nominally involved, our Broadus Church Living Nativity is a prime example. My favorite thing to do is to slip in with a tour group and watch the children. They hold their parents' hands as they walk down the dim wooded path. But then the lights come on at each scene, and their eyes get wide with wonder! They are captivated by the words of prophets, peasants and priests. They laugh at funny shepherds and point at the adorable animals. They gasp when the angels suddenly appear in the sky. They whisper to their parents, asking if the gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh are real. Then they hold hands again as a Roman soldier declares Jesus to be the living Lord and Savior. The memories of a special night will stay with them forever!

The Gospel of Luke tells us that after the shepherds visited the newborn king, his mother Mary "treasured up all these things and pondered them in her heart." Mary would keep those special memories, and they would fuel her faith for the rest of her life.

My prayer is that the Living Nativity would stir the hearts and minds of children and adults alike. I pray the treasured experiences and memories would fuel their faith until they come to know and trust Jesus Christ as their own Savior and Lord. We won't always know when that has happened, but planting just one seed of faith makes it all worthwhile!

I hope you will treasure in your heart every special moment God sends your way this Christmas season.

Joy and peace to you!

Pastor Phil

Merry Christmas from your church staff!
